THOUSANDS OF PAMPHLETS AND BOOKS SENT OUT BY HAYWOOD TO INCITE LABOR OF U. S.

LESSONS IN SEDITION

Contain Ways and Means For Gripping Industry and Commerce and Taking Over All Power.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Oct. 2.—The October grand jury sworn in today in federal court is expected to continue the inquiry begun by the September grand jury into anti-war activities.

Some of the evidence used by the federal grand jury in obtaining true bills shows that it was contained principally in letters and pamphlets, thousands of which were distributed over the country.

From a book sent by Wm. D. Haywood, secretary-treasurer, to Duluth, Minn., to be translated into Finnish, the following was taken:

Justice No Concern.
"We are going to take over the industries some day for three very good reasons: because we need them; because we want them; and because we have the power to get them, whether we are effectively justified or not is not our concern."

A letter from James Rowan sent to Seattle, Wash., under date of August 2, says: "We have the good will of the German people here, and we feel they are in sympathy here with our cause."

Another excerpt from the book sent by Haywood to Duluth said: "We are going to take over the industries some day for three very good reasons: because we need them; because we want them; and because we have the power to get them, whether we are effectively justified or not is not our concern."

The book also says that the "I. W. W. is a real union. We are absolutely and irrevocably disinterested with the present system of society. We consider it a useless system and intend to destroy it."

The I. W. W. is more than a labor organization. It is a real union. We are absolutely and irrevocably disinterested with the present system of society. We consider it a useless system and intend to destroy it."

STIRS COLLEAGUES TO FIGHTING HEAT

Rep. James T. Heflin.

Several members of congress have threatened to give Representative Heflin of Alabama a sound thrashing because of his recent charge that certain few members of both houses have been "acting in a suspicious manner" relative to the German "slush fund" revealed in the Bernstorff telegram given out by Secretary Lansing.

Heflin had a flat fight on the floor of the lower house a few days ago with Representative Norton of North Dakota.

Heflin said he was determined to find out the precise status. The farmer should be allowed a reasonable profit.

Deputy Attorney General Drew is expected in Milwaukee on Wednesday to personally delve into the milk price situation.

PROCLAIMS DAY FOR FIRE AND ACCIDENT PREVENTION WORK

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Oct. 2.—Next Tuesday, Oct. 9, has been designated by Gov. Philipp as "Fire and Accident Prevention Day." In a proclamation issued today the governor called on the owners of the state and nation to clean up the rubbish so that fire may be prevented. A copy of his proclamation with other data prepared by State Superintendent C. C. Cary will be sent to every school in the state this week. Gov. Philipp's proclamation issued today designating Oct. 9 as fire prevention day declares:

"In this crisis of the nation's life the question of conserving our resources, both natural and otherwise, is of vital importance. While the naval and military forces of the land are defending liberty and democracy and national existence, and in doing so sacrificing their lives and substance, it is meet and necessary to call the attention of the state and nation to the loss of lives and property at home which the state and nation can ill afford at the present time."

The annual report of the state fire marshal for the year 1916 shows a fire loss for that year of nearly six million dollars, $4,415,000 a month and $1,264,74 a day. Statistics further show many injuries and lives lost in fires.

Further the industrial expansion, due to the war, has increased the number of employees, and especially those without experience, and has expedited the use of machinery. In the fever to produce, both employers and employees have forgotten safety cautions and movements, and the conservation of resources and the safety and protection of workmen has become a necessity, and a patriotic duty of all.

The proclamation then calls upon the schools to observe the day by appropriate exercises and urges the mayors of the cities to effect a general clean-up of all combustible waste.

Officials elated over loan returns

Washington, Oct. 2.—Treasury officials were elated at the returns coming in from all parts of the country. Indications are that the rate of 4 1/2 percent for the second liberty loan is meeting with an enthusiastic response from the public.

Although reports from all large cities make it appear that the public welcomes the opportunity to assist the government in the present emergency, the officials recognize that only a sustained intensive drive will make the campaign a success.

It has been estimated that the volume of subscription must be approximately $125,000,000 a day in order to attain the minimum figure of three billion dollars.

The government has utilized every practical means to bring before the people the necessity of floating the new loan, including canvassing by members of civic organization.

Predicts further German offensives

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Copenhagen, Oct. 2.—Major Morath, the usually well informed military critic of the Danish press, predicts further offensive movements with limited objective against the Russians on the line of the recent advances in the Riga and Jacobs districts. Apparently he believes that the war has not been abandoned in the west. He agrees with General Freytag-Loringhoven, chief of the supplementary staff that the general attitude must remain with the entente.

Major Morath dismisses the report of American military help for the entente as "imaginary."

DOUBT OVER CALLING OF SPECIAL SESSION

Madison, Wis., Oct. 2.—Political leaders here are beginning to express a doubt as to whether the special session of the legislature will be held. It was the original intention of Governor Philipp to call the legislature into session some time in November. Some of the members of the legislature are doubtful as to whether the war will be issued at all and others feel sure that it will not be issued before the first of the year.

Some time ago Gov. Philipp announced that there would be a special session of the legislature during the week that would be taken up by the enforcement of the Sunday closing law. There were a number of members of the legislature mentioned might be taken up in the special session.

BOCHES RUSH RESERVES TO CHECK ITALY

GERMANY WITHDRAWS LARGE NUMBER FROM OTHER FRONTS TO MEET ITALIANS.

ALARMED BY ADVANCE

Victorious in Great Offensive Italians Are Ready to Push Another Great Drive.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Oct. 2.—Alarmed by the success of the Italian drive over the Banico plateau, Germany is withdrawing large numbers of Austrian troops from France and Galicia and Bukovina and rushing them to the Italian front to meet the renewed offensive of General Cadorna. Official dispatches received here from Rome say the second phase of the great battle is about to open.

Retaliatory Raids.
Paris, Oct. 2.—The German city of Frankfurt on the Main, Stuttgart, Trete and Coplenz were bombed last night by French aviators in retaliation for German aerial attacks on French cities.

Five Attacks Fail.
London, Oct. 2.—Five attacks by the Germans along the Ypres-Menin road at the northeastern corner of the Polygon woods have ended in complete failure, the army officials announced.

Renewed Activity.
There was marked activity over the whole Aisne front, especially in the sector of Granoche. Two enemy attacks were without result.

Northwest of Rheims our artillery dispersed enemy concentrations. On the right bank of the Meuse the artillery fighting was very intense during the night. Near Samogneux as far as Bezonvaux the Germans made two efforts to recapture our trenches in the Belambert sector. Our fire checked them each time, inflicting appreciable losses.

Bombed Dunkirk.
The following official announcement was given today:
The Germans last night made new attacks on the town of Dunkirk. The bombardment was very violent, but caused no serious material damage.

Drop Many Bombs.
"Our bombing airplanes made numerous expeditions in the course of which 2,120 kilograms of bombs and explosives were thrown on military buildings on Roulers and 6,000 kilograms (13,200 pounds) on the railway station at Metz-for-worpy and Thionville. The airplane at Chambery enflamed at Epinaycourt and Tilly and munition depots at the Longueau farm where a violent explosion was observed."

German airplanes were brought down yesterday by our pilot and four others were compelled to land in a disabled condition.

Huns Bomb Hospitals.
British aviators in France and Belgium, Oct. 2.—A German airman dropped bombs on two hospitals behind the British line. Three British nurses and some wounded soldiers were killed.

German Capture Ground.
London, Oct. 2.—A portion of the fighting ground at Polygon woods on the Flanders front to a depth of three miles has been captured by German troops from the British army headquarters announced today. The gained ground was retained.

London, Oct. 2.—Nearly 4,000 prisoners were taken by the British army in Mesopotamia, which captured Haidia, it is announced officially.

Rome, Oct. 2.—The vatican has delivered to the British minister the text of the reply of Germany and Austria to the pope's peace proposals. This fall arrangement will be accompanied by a short note from the vatican.

SUPREME COURT TO PASS ON DRAFT LAW

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, Oct. 2.—The supreme court was asked to pass on the constitutionality of the selective draft law at the earliest date possible in a motion presented today by Solicitor General Dand. Appeals by persons convicted of violating the act have been made and the Solicitor General asks that they be advanced and heard together. Among the cases are those of Edward Edwards, Alexander Berkman convicted on charges of urging men of conscription age not to register. The motion was taken under advisement.

MEXICO FORMALLY PROTESTS DRAFTING

PHILIPP'S PLAN TO RAISE ARMY MEETS WITH LITTLE FAVOR

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Oct. 2.—Little encouragement has been given to the plan of Governor Philipp to raise the next draft army, which is likely to be called for about Christmas, by voluntary enlistments. Adjutant General Ehlman has returned from Washington after placing the idea before the federal authorities and he admits that there is little hope of endorsement. He was given to understand that the president and the drafted men from the eastern part of the state who would have gone on Oct. 3, will be called later.

In an official statement, just issued, Governor Philipp called attention to the fact that no men will be sent to Camp Custer until later and declares that there has been some confusion and misunderstanding about the earlier statement issued.

Seaside Resort in Flanders, Oct. 2.—Excursions to the seashore have been abolished in France since the men with whom Gen. Anthoine has brilliantly taken the German lines north of Bixchoote.

When these heroes were relieved their general told them what a great service they had rendered to their country and ended by asking: "Boys, what can I do for you?" An officer, covered from head to foot with trench mud, stepped forward and said: "General, I think what all the men would prefer to anything else on earth is a good bath."

Gen. Anthoine immediately ordered a mobilization of sufficient motor conveyances to take the entire division to the nearest seaside resort, where they could enjoy a swim in the surf on which no one would be permitted to interfere.

The effect of this opportunity for a good free plunge in the sea was such that the officers regret that the quarters of all divisions are not near enough to the coast so that the experiment may be repeated.

Regular diversion for the troops at the front.

M'ADOO MEETING TO BE LARGEST OF YEAR

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Oct. 2.—The biggest public meeting to be held in Wisconsin this year is planned for Secretary of the Treasury William C. McAdoo when he speaks here in the University stock pavilion at eight o'clock Wednesday night, Oct. 3.

Secretary McAdoo comes direct from President Wilson to speak to the people about America's plan in connection with the world war. Great popular interest attaches to his coming because he not only is a member of the cabinet, but also he is a member of President Wilson's immediate family, having married one of the president's daughters, and therefore is in a position to speak for the government.

Inquiries come to the committee on arrangements from all parts of the state, and the committee announced today that every county in Wisconsin would be represented at this meeting. The train is to be run from Janesville to Madison, and return, Wednesday night, to accommodate the crowd that is coming from the lower city. Stouffer, Editor of the Milwaukee Journal, will accompany the train and will avail themselves of the use of this special train.

Reports received from Boscobel, Lancaster and Plattville on the west, to Watertown, Ft. Atkinson and Whitefish, and from Portage and Baraboo on the north to Monroe and Mineral Point on the south, are to the effect that delegations of from twenty-five to fifty will come from each of these cities.

HIGH LICENSE SHUTS 1,000 GOTHAM BARS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Oct. 2.—Unable to cope with the multiplicity of taxes and increased cost of intoxicants one thousand saloons and retail liquor stores in greater New York have closed their doors according to an estimate made today by city officials. Yesterday the license fee of $1500 which must be paid in advance became due hundreds of places failed to open their doors.

WANT INFORMATION ABOUT COURT JUDGE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Albany, N. Y., Oct. 1.—The senate of the New York legislature by adoption of formal resolutions today requested Secretary of State Lansing to furnish information on the public welfare which would tend to throw additional light upon the alleged participation of Justice Daniel F. Coffey of the New York supreme court in German activities, especially with regard to Ireland.

U. S. SUPREME COURT CONVENES WITH BIG CALENDAR OF CASES

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, Oct. 2.—With its calendar filled with highly important cases, the supreme court convened today for its 187-18 term. In line with an old time custom, it adjourned after formal business to call on the president.

A decision is expected speedily on the constitutionality of the draft law under which 600,000 men are now in service. Should five justices vote the law invalid, all these young men could return to their homes.

Scarcely less important is the decision on the child labor law. Should this be invalidated, all national efforts to reform child labor conditions must be abandoned, and the field given over to the states, several of which are decidedly unfriendly to such legislation.

There is an understanding that the supreme court will give these measures right-of-way.

Before the court also are some of the most important trust-busting cases the United States has ever started. If all were won, the so-called steel, harvester, shoe-machinery, kodak, anthracite, lake-luggage, corn products trusts would be compelled to dissolve.

But there are humors—nothing so unaccounted for as a "hunch" or a "tip" could come from the court itself, and of course the court will not naturally fail to reach these cases.

The executive branches of government feel the trusts can be most practically dealt with through price-fixing and profit-taking.

Certain officials of the executive departments "hope" the supreme court will let things go at that until at least the war is over.

Two cases important to union labor are the attempts of one Eagle Glass and Manufacturing company and the Kirshman Coal and Coke company, both of West Virginia, to have unions declared conspiracies under the state laws.

Methods of Dupont power interests in alleged strong-arm methods of putting a competitor out of business will be reviewed in the suit of the defunct Buckeye Powder company against the DuPont company and its associates.

Denver, Col., and Lincoln, Neb., will reach decisions in old railroad cases, respectively their water and gas utilities.

Whether Illinois railroads may charge 2.4 cents a mile, when the law sets 1.5 cents, is a question which several pending cases are pending. Power of the I. C. C. to investigate where it suspects railroad corruption funds is in question.

2,000 TONS OF FOOD DESTROYED BY FIRE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Stockholm, Oct. 2.—More than 2,000 tons of provision, fodder and other supplies were destroyed today by fire in storehouses near Stockholm. Several buildings are being repaired. 1,000,000 pounds will be lost severely particularly as it probably will be impossible to replace the material under the existing import restrictions.

BARE PLOT TO DYNAMITE REGINA FEDERAL BUILDING

Regina, Sask., Oct. 2.—A plot to blow up the provincial parliament buildings here was discovered late Monday.

GERMAN AIR BARBARITY AT CLIMAX

AIR FRIGHTFULNESS REACHES WORST STAGE IN LAST NIGHT'S ATTACK—HUNS DRIVEN OFF

20 RAIDERS IN ATTACK

People of City Remain Calm, Despite Main of Bombs and Falling Shrapnel Fragments

[By International News.]
London, Oct. 2.—German air frightfulness has reached its most acute stage.

Last night's raid over London and the southeastern counties more than twenty great German machines of the Gotha type took part. It was estimated today that considerable damage was done not only by the bombs dropped from the aeroplanes but by the rain of shrapnel from the high angle guns which fell back upon the city.

The people of London had been warned in advance to expect an attack and only the boldest souls were in sleeping positions when the alarm was sounded and the thunder of the barrage fire from the high angle guns began to sound at sunset.

The German airmen evidently had hoped to lead the Londoners into danger by attacking in squadron formation with intervals in between the bombardments, but in this they were foiled.

Not all of the attacking airplanes were able to get as far as London, so vigorous was the defense put up by the British patrols and so violent was the curtain fire from the anti-aircraft cannon.

However, some of the machines in the first squadron succeeded in bombarding the southwestern part of the city, which the British had feared would be the case. Some projectiles were dropped also on the northern outskirts.

While many windows were smashed and great holes torn in the streets by the bursting of aerial torpedoes, no damage of military importance was done.

Savage fighting, in which the spitting fire from the machine guns could be seen in the clouds, gave the spectators one of the most thrilling scenes they have witnessed since the Germans began attacking London. The German bombing machines were accompanied by speedy battleplanes which egged the British machines while the bomb droppers were at work.

The fire from the high angle guns was the hottest ever known and for hours the thunder of the guns echoed between London and the coast while the sky was lighted up by the shafts of light from numerous searchlights and the lurid glare of bursting shrapnel.

The Germans used shrapnel projectiles as well as torpedoes, these being especially useful for the destruction of property but better adapted for killing purposes. Shells were thrown down that started fires.

COMPANY M STARTS LIFE IN NEW CAMP WITH SATISFACTION

Co. M, 128th Infantry, 64th Brigade, 32nd Div., N. G., Camp McArthur, Waco, Tex., Sept. 28, 1917.
Company "M" feels well refreshed after the first night's rest in their new home. It seemed to us just as if it was in Camp Douglas. Many of the men went to bed with the fear of scorpions, rattlesnakes, etc., but these insects of animals, out here, Sergeant Ryan, Beard, Bugler Berg have each killed a scorpion so far but these little bugs have made themselves scarce in Company "M". They are poisonous but will not harm you if you do not bother them. They have a funny little tail and a million little legs. I hope none of the women get the "creeps" when I speak of them.

This morning one of the boys brought in a horned toad. These toads are not a bit harmful and are a great deal like the Wisconsin toad except that the Wisconsin toad is minus the horns. We have not encountered any snakes as yet but probably will before long.

We are indeed proud of our fine camp. It is a fine place to live in. We are indeed proud of our fine camp. It is a fine place to live in. We are indeed proud of our fine camp. It is a fine place to live in.

There is a fine Y. M. C. A. building in the center and to the rear of our grounds. This Y is fixed up like a regular large hotel and is very comfortable. It has a city club room. At this place moving pictures are shown, free of charge, candy, post cards, stamps, etc., and they even have a dancing floor. The water here is mineral water and tastes a whole lot different than "Good Old Janesville City Water". It has a taste something like medicine but they say it is good for you. So everybody should try it. We are indeed proud of our fine camp. It is a fine place to live in.

Wanted—A street car line of a bicycle so we can reach the bath house within fifteen minutes of the time we leave our tent. Sergeants Ryan, Beard, and Bugler Berg and Sartell. Wanted—A "Darkie" orderly—All the Sergeants.

Wanted—the people of Janesville to address our mail as Company "M", 128th Infantry, 64th Brigade, 32nd Division, N. G., Camp McArthur, Waco, Texas.
Wanted—in order to keep the Sergeants out of my tent—Bugler Berg.
Company Notes.
Last evening most of the members of our company availed themselves of the opportunity to take a trip to town and see the sights. Most of the boys were flush with their money and rode down town in cars. Autos are always waiting for us at the end of the street every evening and the men take us down for twenty-five cents apiece. These men will have a very poor business when they get home. The city of Waco is a very fine place, being very clean and healthful. There are some of the largest buildings in the country here and some of the best architectural work has been done on them.
We are over fifteen hundred miles away from home and mail does not travel very fast but we all do appreciate mail from home even if it is old. We are indeed proud of our fine camp. It is a fine place to live in.

HELD REGULAR DRILL ON MONDAY EVENING

Regular drill period for the Sixteenth Separate Company, Wisconsin State Guard, was held last evening at the armory on West Milwaukee street. Practically every member of the company was on hand to take part in the drilling which continued for one hour and a half.
The men made rapid progress in the execution of the new movements which were given them as well as in the old ones. The movements which were studied at the last three or four drill periods. The work of drilling the squad occupied most of the time during the evening. Each corporal took charge of his men and executed the movements alone. Previous to the squad work some company formations were practiced and fifteen minutes of parade march was given by the men by Sergeant Schwegler.
The uniforms for the company will soon be on the way to be given the men. Word from the adjutant general's office in Madison says that the uniforms should be expected within the next month. This company will be given the regular blue uniforms which are similar to the uniforms worn by the national guard for winter wear.
The rifles which will be furnished the company will not be given the men as soon as the uniforms are given out. The government is making it its time to the equipment of the regular army with new rifles and will be unable to equip the local company until the army men are given their share. Arrangements are being made by the officers of the company for the establishment of a range in the army so that the men may practice shooting. There are some rifles on hand at the armory and plenty of ammunition so that the shooting range may be established previous to the arrival of the guns from the state.
Thursday evening the company will give a social at the armory on West Milwaukee street. The dance will be for the benefit of the company so that they may secure a fund to defray expenses of treatment which may be incurred by the men. The state pays for the hall itself but the company must maintain it during the time they are using it. The dance will start at nine o'clock and continue until one o'clock.

NOT A QUORUM ATTEND SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

Too few members of the school board were present last night to transact any business and they adjourned for one week. This was the first meeting of the school board since the fall term opened. The members present were Supt. H. H. Faust and Clerk S. C. Burham. All of them commented favorably on the improvements made this summer at the high school.
"Because" the act does not include other kinds of treatment which may be of a beneficial nature, does not mean that recovery can be had for them. The failure of the legislature to include such is the reason why they are not chargeable to the employer or his insurance.

HERE'S WHEATLESS MENU FOR TOMORROW

Though the people of Janesville have appeared ready to the appeal of Food Administrator Swenson to eliminate meat from their menus on Tuesdays and wheat on Wednesdays, the latter conservation plan has brought some difficulties in that few people know what to substitute for the many things in which wheat flour is used.

The Gazette publishes below a menu for future meals tomorrow in which are included a number of delectable dishes not unusually found on tables in this section. Recipes for these follow the menu for tomorrow is wheatless day.

14 YEAR OLD BOY IN DARING HOLD-UP

Sharon, Oct. 2.—The daring robbery of Jesse James, or the tales of the stage coach robberies of the "Wild West" must be burning in the fertile imagination of our 14 year old boy, who was waiting for us at the end of the street every evening and the men take us down for twenty-five cents apiece. These men will have a very poor business when they get home. The city of Waco is a very fine place, being very clean and healthful. There are some of the largest buildings in the country here and some of the best architectural work has been done on them.
We are over fifteen hundred miles away from home and mail does not travel very fast but we all do appreciate mail from home even if it is old. We are indeed proud of our fine camp. It is a fine place to live in.

FORMER RESIDENT GOING TO RUSSIA AS ARMY OBSERVER

Major J. A. Ruggles, a former resident of this city, has been ordered to Washington and will be detailed from there as a military attaché and observer in Russia. For the past year Major Ruggles has been in charge of the recruiting in Western Massachusetts.
Major Ruggles was a Janesville boy and has a brother, T. W. Ruggles, who now lives in the city and is a conductor on the C. & N. W. railroad. He was also a nephew of the late John J. Comstock and a relative of Fred L. Clemons.
Rev. J. Luepke will take charge of Hanover church.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—More grass-fed hogs arrived yesterday than usual as compared with recent Mondays and the price paid was higher. Top on the first round was $19.60, but some of the common grassy packing stock sold down to $13.25. Receipts yesterday were largest since Aug. 13, at 19,000 head. Yesterday was a poor day for an unsettled affair, and in the absence of strictly prime animals the top was $17.25. Because of the poorer quality there are very few receipts upward of $15 and many sold below $11.
Many were surprised at the advance scored yesterday in lamb prices, but an improvement in the eastern trade and higher receipts at the outside markets gave sellers the advantage and buyers lost no time in buying up the offerings and top at $18.25 was the highest on record for the day.
Receipts for today are estimated at 8,000 cattle, 12,000 hogs and 20,000 sheep, against 8,250 cattle, 23,500 hogs and 22,339 sheep corresponding Tuesday.
Average price of hogs at Chicago was $19.05, against $19.15 Saturday, $18.60 a week ago, $9.50 a year ago and $16.00 two years ago.
Cattle Trade Healthier.
Steers yesterday in the native division were about steady, but the trade was uneven. Butcher stock and bulk sales were on a higher, while calves held steady. Stockers and feeders went steady to strong. Range offerings, totaling around 7,500 head, were strong to 25¢ higher, but nothing doing. Quality of native arrivals was only fair and best steers offered made $17.25. Quotations:
Choice to fancy steers, $18.50@17.60.
Poor to good steers, $17.25@17.25.
Fancy calves, $17.50@17.50.
Fat cows and heifers, $14.00@12.65.
Canning cows and culs, $10.00@10.25.
Native bulls and stags, $6.00@10.25.
Feeding cattle, 60¢@1.10.
Hogs showed a decline, largely 10¢ lower, but a few prime butchers at the opening were not materially changed. Quality was poorer than usual for Monday and many grassy offerings were on hand. Some of the best grass-fed were considered 25¢ off in extreme instances. Trade was irregular and closed weak. Pigs were steady, with choice lots 12.25. Prices declined $4¢ from two days of this week in 1916. Quotations:
Bulk of sales, $18.55@19.40.
Heavy butchers and ship, $18.55@19.40.
Light butchers, 190¢@230.
Lbs. bacon, 14¢@190.
Mixed packing, 200¢@400.
Lbs. mixed packing, 200¢@250.
Rough, heavy packing, 18.35@18.75.
Poor to best pigs, 60¢@125.
Stags, 80 lbs. dockage per head, 18.50@19.25.
Sheep Sell Strong.
Sheep were largely strong, although a lot of lambs looked a little heavier yesterday. Lambs were mainly 15¢ higher than last week's close, with fat and feeder range lots up to $18.25, natives, however, made $11.75, with lambs at $11.25. Yearlings topped at $14 and a few wethers reached $13. Quotations:
Lambs, common to fancy $15.00@18.25.
Lambs, poor to good.

DEATH OF BELOIT MAN A MYSTERY TO POLICE OFFICIALS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Beloit, Wis., Oct. 2.—Who killed Billy Rags? This is the question that has been asked at the preliminary hearing of two negroes here, Clyde Coleman and Clyde Hoffman. Perhaps nobody died. But the police want to know who killed Billy Rags. Billy Rags was a white man, a native of the city of Janesville, who was killed on the street, but when the patrol arrived on the scene, a dead man awaited them. Sleuthing brought out the fact that Billy had engaged in a scuffle with two negroes on the McCord porch when the blacks tried to keep him from talking to Mrs. McCord. Billy was going to hire a woman to help his sister clean house.
A stiff third degree Friday afternoon brought out the names of the two men from Mrs. McCord and warrants were issued Saturday charging manslaughter. Yesterday Coleman admitted that the dead man had been pushed off the porch and had fallen in a heap. Coleman and Hoffman carried Billy to the terrace, laid him out, and called the police, pretending not to know that the man was dead. A post mortem examination showed the presence of a bruise on the dead man's right temple. Death came from a clot at the base of the brain. Just what caused this clot will be brought out by the coroner's inquest to be held Friday afternoon. If it is found that a blow from one of the negroes caused the trouble, Billy will have another murder case on its calendar. Coleman and Hoffman are now in jail. The police intend to probe it to the bottom.

BELOIT COMPANY IS THING OF THE PAST

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Beloit, Wis., Oct. 2.—Beloit's militia company, Company L, First Wisconsin Infantry, is no more. The troops of the first regiment that went south last week no longer exist in Waco, Texas, and orders to resign, 100 men were received. Arrived at the Beloit men go to Company G, Madison, which is transferred as a whole to the second regiment. The other 100 men were given over to Company L of the second regiment from Rhineland. All of the first regiment was abandoned and the other regiments brought up to the war strength of 250 men in company. Officers were sent to their companies in the mixup and a letter home says that things are in all sorts of disorder due to the change. The 100 men from the Beloit company have been assigned to Company L, 127th Infantry, 32 Division, 64 Brigade, Camp McArthur, Waco, Texas.

FOOTBALL WILL BE LIVE PROPOSITION

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, Oct. 2.—Football this year is going to be a very live proposition, in spite of the fact that Harvard, Yale and Princeton have decided to leave the game that on its back.

Minus the big brawl made every year over the games indulged in by the historic triumvirate, with its antics resting at Princeton, New Haven and Cambridge, the old game is going right along, and it seems certain that the west is going to be the center of the thing.

Despite general belief, football doesn't live and breathe in the atmosphere of Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Jersey. They play a decidedly interesting brand of the pastime out in Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan and other states. Historical interest alone sticks out in the big eastern conflicts and only the glory that attaches to those contests gives them the edge over the western kind of scrags on the gridiron.

It would be wrong to say that football as it is played in the east is superior to that played in the west, for there are two different kinds of football.

In the west the idea is to develop a working unit of play, ready for any emergency. Their best teams in this section are of the degree of efficiency under this method of tutelage.

In this section the work begins early on pointing teams for some big game. At Harvard it is for Yale, at Princeton it is for Yale and Harvard.

The coaches are more numerous at these big eastern universities. Graduate students in greater numbers are taken over by a former star at that position and taught all the tricks that can be crammed into his head. As a result he becomes proficient at a certain style of play, ready to be set into the Yale, Harvard or Princeton style of attack or defense.

These big colleges turn out individuals who are as marvelous. The western schools turn out strongly working units of football. Consistent clashes between the two sections would bring out which of the two is best, but this is a mere dream.

EXPECT ATTENDANCE RECORD IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 2.—If the seating capacity of the baseball parks in which play will be staged here were not limited there is no question that the attendance records would be established in the coming world series between the Chicago Americans and the New York Nationals. So keen is the interest and enthusiasm created by this inter-sectional struggle for supremacy between the teams of the two largest cities of the nation that under certain conditions it is likely even the figures of 1912 may be surpassed.

In the coming games the New York Polo grounds will seat 37,000 spectators. In round numbers, the capacity of the White Sox park with due allowance for any temporary stands that President Comiskey may elect to erect, will not exceed this paid seating capacity. As a result of comparison, therefore, the maximum capacity of either park may be placed at approximately 37,000. Many close followers of the playing ability of the two teams involved have reached the conclusion that even anything like an even break in the luck of the game, the series will go at least six games before a decision is reached.

If this proves to be the case the total attendance in round numbers would aggregate 222,000, as against 221,300 actual paid admissions in the New York-Boston series of 1912, which, including one in the parks, was the highest of the week on which games will be played at Chicago or New York.

LACK EXPERIENCE IN PREVIOUS CONTESTS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, Oct. 2.—Out of the forty odd players of the Chicago Americans who are eligible to take part in the coming world series just ten have participated in these baseball classics of the past years. The winners of the American league pennant, number three such contenders among the men enrolled upon the club roster, while the New York Giants count seven players who have had the bank accounts increased as a result of their share of one or more such series.

Although the Chicago club participated in the series of 1912, not one of the present White Sox date back to that period, and the three men who hold world series brackets won their honors while members of other teams. Five of the Giants' experience in these post-season contests while wearing the uniform of the New York club and two as members of other National or American league combinations.

In point of world series service Second baseman, Eddie Collins, who made the sensational jump from the Columbia university nine to Connie Mack's famous baseball, has been an imponderable factor in four such series played with the Athletics. Arthur Fletcher and Charley Herzog, stars of the Giants' infield, are next in line, having played in three series for the New York club. Pitcher Tesserau, another Giant, has shared in the prize money of two series, while Eddie Murphy also figured in two, while wearing the Athletics' uniform and the Hobbs Hyne in the uniform of the

There are also four New York players who have been through one such campaign. Demaree and Burns were in the 1912 series for the Giants, while Zimmerman played for the Chicago Nationals in the series of 1910, and George Gibson for the Pittsburgh Nationals in the clash of 1909 against Detroit.

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

National league batters hold all records for fanning the breeze in world's series. The figures are 379 strikeouts in the National league in the big contest to 343 in the American league. In 1909 Jake Abstein set up a mark that will never be equalled, we hope, when he was playing with the Pirates against the Tigers and struck out nine times in the course of the series. He hasn't figured in many world's series since. In 1916 Bill Sullivan of the Sox struck out eight times and Josh Devore of the Giants whiffed five times in the series of 1911.

If the White Sox are able to frame up a good offense against the Giants' hit-and-run tactics they should have McGraw's bunch in quite a hole. The Giants are stars at the hit-and-run and naturally depend on it. If the White Sox battery can outguess the batter and runner, if they can keep the ball too wide or too high when the batter is booked to connect they will have the Giants in a bad way. It will largely be a matter of whether or not the White Sox pitchers and catchers—we will all bank on Ray Schalk—were smart enough to outguess the Giants. It looks like the White Sox will bunt ever and anon and squeeze a runner in from third. This will also be likely to peeve the Giants, as they have not seen much of that sort of thing in the National league.

Old Heinie Zim, the Giants' gifted third baseman, always willing to admit that Ed Cicotte has the sign on him, Zimmerman never could hit Cicotte and from the way he tells it we can suppose that he never hopes to hit him. In the last of the series between the Cubs and the White Sox no one who saw it will ever forget how helpless Heinie was when Ed was in the box. More than once he came out when a hit was needed and popped out in the saddest fashion. Added to the jinx Cicotte seemed to have over Zim was the goat-nabbing joshing of Kid Gleason on the coaching lines. On one occasion when Cicotte was pitching and Gleason coaching Zimmerman came up to eat knowing that a hit would save the day and struck out on three balls so high that Ray Schalk had to jump to get them. But Gleason fans say that Zim has improved in every way since then and that nothing of the sort will happen in the world's series.

Dave Danforth, the White Sox large southpaw, has been of great service to Rowland through the past season as a life-saver and Clarence plans to use him in this way in the big game. Some have even said that Danforth and do greater work than anyone expected. At any rate Rowland is likely to find use for Dave if the pitcher working begins to look wobbly. Rowland has seldom failed to hold the fort when sent in to finish the game.

Slim Saltee has pitched great ball this season since joining the Giants, so much so that he has been mentioned among the season's other "one-hitters." It is probable, however, that he will not be mentioned among the season's other "one-hitters." McGraw knows how to handle him. With the St. Louis Cardinals Slim was acquiring a temporary job that was a woe to his employers. On one occasion he discovered that the pitcher of another team stopping at the same hotel was a fellow who had been in the clubhouse and threatened to quit baseball for good. With McGraw he seems to be another creature. Jawns knows how to handle them.

Whatever else may happen at the world's series this season at least this much can be accurately forecasted. There will be no records broken for attendance and attendance. A scrap between the Giants and the White Sox is an attractive one and it is stirring remarkable interest for these war times. But the crowds will not be so large, mostly because the parks will not hold enough. The Braves park last season held 42,500. The best that can be expected of the Polo grounds is about 38,000, and Comiskey says that his White Sox park will not properly hold under present regulations, more than 32,000. So it can be seen that the money the boys will split will be something less than that of years before.

Columbia Grafonola and Double-Disc Records

Go to Your Own Concert

GO into any Columbia Grafonola store, take a comfortable chair, and look through a Columbia Record Catalog.

Select the kind of music you and your family like—pick out as many pieces as you want.

Hand the salesman the program of your concert.

You will then be conducted to a Columbia Grafonola where you can enjoy your concert in comfort. In most Columbia Grafonola stores small rooms are provided to add privacy to the element of ease.

If you desire, the salesman will play the records for you. But as the Columbia has no complicated parts, and can be played by any one after a very short explanation, we believe you will be better satisfied if you play it yourself.

Then you can enjoy your self-selected concert as leisurely and as comfortably as if the instrument were in your own home.

Still you might want to try a Columbia at home—hear it in your own house. That's easy. A Columbia Grafonola will be sent to your home on trial if you wish. You can play it there and judge the merits of the instrument at your leisure. You can try it out with other makes of phonographs. The Columbia dealer welcomes such tests.

The superior tone of the Columbia is never more apparent than when it is heard in contrast with other makes.

When you have decided what style of Columbia Grafonola you want, you will find that convenient arrangements for its purchase can be made.

Columbia Grafonolas are priced at $15 to $350

IMPOSSIBLE INDEMNITIES.

When a German parliamentary party means by the word when it calls for indemnities, only with singular instances, the German National Liberal party has delivered itself of what is evidently considered the indispensable conditions to safeguard Germany's future, says an eastern exchange. There is part of the text of the resolution.

Germany's future security cannot be based on international treaties alone, but must be founded on German might and strength. Without ample war indemnities Germany would not be protected against future menace, and our political and economic development would be retarded for decades.

This is reasoning with which the world has grown familiar. Germany wants something very much, and does not belong to her, and therefore she should have it, regardless of the feelings of the present possessor. Whether it be coal and iron deposits in France and Belgium, or reparations on the British channel, is all one. Germany's claim is complete by the mere assertion that she can make these useful in her business.

There is no sincerity in the phrase "indemnities and no annexations." But if the Germans had not thrust themselves by their system of education, by a nationalistic run mad, they would know that only two powers, and perhaps only one, will be in a position to pay indemnities after the war, and they are infinitely more likely to exact them. Only by a victory which has now become impossible could Germany secure anything from Great Britain, and a discount on what she might secure from us would make that on the depreciable mark look cheerful by comparison.

Germany must work out her own salvation after the war, and the certainty that her people will be subjected to severe privation and that the re-education of her industry and trade will only be made, if at all, over a long period of years, is in this connection beside the point. Germany staked her all upon the most atrocious and colossal gamble in the history of the world. No doubt it is painful to pay her losses, but the same was one of her own choosing. She went into it, as she supposed, with the cards marked and with victory a certainty. This is no time to talk about indemnities. The possibility of anything of the kind virtually disappeared after the battle of the Marne. How is it possible to reason with people who have learned nothing from experience? What Germany needs we can realize. What she wants is a different matter, and she will take it by whatever means she can get. She will take what she can get, and that will include overwhelming military disaster, with occupation of her territory in 1918.

FEWER STUDENTS.

Preliminary returns from the colleges and technical schools are showing a decline in enrollment of ten to forty per cent. As the majority of these students are under military age, it does not seem possible that any such proportion could have been drafted. Probably a good many boys of nineteen and twenty, fearing test they could be called out before the war is over, dislike to enter on courses that they may not be able to complete.

The United States faces a hard race after the war for technical and mental supremacy. The war has demonstrated that the old levels of attainment are not sufficient. Old theories of political economy, old systems of mechanical production, have had to go into the rag bag. The world's industries are going to re-open on a basis of greater production. Many wastes have been eliminated and the wits of men have been sharpened by intense competition.

The United States can not go along in the old wasteful way. It needs mechanical experts of the highest order. It needs broadly trained men who have studied deeply into human history, and who can lead our people in ways of progress and in development of better civic institutions.

Therefore the boy who abandons his plan for higher education is not doing well. It is quite possible that there will not have to be another drawing, or even if there is, the second division of men called may get no farther than the training camps of this country and France.

IT IS READY.

Up at the Y. M. C. A. building is a house for a stranger within our gates. Not a make-believe home, but a real, genuine home. A place where you meet one of your own choice, a place where you can obtain needed exercise and where you can find a room to live in and make friends. No man need be a stranger after once entering those hospitable doors. There you are a brother. To continue to make this possible the Y. M. C. A. management are forcing us to start on another crusade for membership. The war has depleted its ranks, some of its directors are now in the actual service, many of its members are wearing the khaki.

This war has called into service many of our citizens; it will call more of them. The young men have answered the call to the colors and there remains to us many who are below the age of entering the army and those too old. We must make a home for those who remain with us pending a call to join the army in some capacity and do their bit. The Y. M. C. A. is doing a wonderful work in the field and at home. To aid in this work it is the duty of every citizen to aid the home institution. If you can not attend yourself and enjoy the active membership privileges, name a substitute.

Money is needed to keep this institution running and it is up to the citizens to see that it is kept in active operation. If you can not have more members, more supporting members, and if you are not now down on the list sign up at once and avoid the "draft," for you will be listed and imported and you can not fail to answer the call of this important element of our local life that does so much, for the young, the middle-aged and even the older members of our community.

HOMESICK SOLDIERS.

Are there any among our brave boys? They wouldn't be human if there weren't. And it will mean strong attachment to home. Probably the boys who have the most of this feeling, will also have the most of the similar feeling of patriotism and right best.

Observers of the soldier boys say that the majority of them looked cheerful as they departed. But others couldn't keep back the tears. Perhaps it was not so much the thought that they might not return, as that they had never been away from home before.

The sons of the rich are apt to be sent away to schools and camps, where they acquire the valuable quality of self-reliance. The sons of the poor are apt to have to shift for themselves and go among strangers. But among those neither rich or poor, there are many who find work near home, and live under its influence until some great change comes like this.

When young men go away from home restraint, the result is often disastrous. All supervision being removed, there is nothing to hold them straight, but the memory of early instruction, and with many active young men that soon fades out.

The soldier boys will be pretty well looked after. Their officers will be largely educated men of good intellectual standards. There will be the camps of the Y. M. C. A. and the Knights of Columbus, etc., to give moral and religious guidance. Any boy who wants to do right can find plenty of friendship and help. The whole tone of the camps will be against any dissipation. Under these conditions the chances for their moral welfare are better than if cast adrift in strange cities to earn their own living. The necessity for self-dependence will be the making of many a homesick fellow. He went away a boy, and he will return a man.

GOOD SECRET SERVICE.

It looks as if some rather clever work had been done by the American secret service. The revelations of the German-Swedish communications in Argentina and Mexico, following the exposure of the plot to line up Mexico and Japan against us, are a rather clever bit of detective stuff.

The German spy system encircles the world, and is supposed to be the most highly developed machinery for securing secret information. The international end of the business is new to our secret service, who have had their hands full in detecting ordinary crime and do not usually meddle in world politics.

In spite of that, our men have been able to get hold of incriminating letters that are likely to bring new allies to us. It is showing ability to beat Germany at her own game. The Kaiser must storm and stomp his feet, as he perceives the inability of his best gumshoe men to keep from being heard and tracked by our alert sleuths.

Just Folks

(By Edgar A. Guest.)

MY PART
I may never be a hero, I am just the limit now.
There are pencil marks of silver
Time has left upon my brow:
I shall win no service medals, I shall hear no cannons' roar.
I shall never fight a battle higher up than eagles soar.

But I hope my children's children may recall my name with pride
As a man who never whimpered when his soul was being tried.

For the fighting and the dying for the everlasting truth,
Are the robes designed for the
sturdiest of our youth,
And the man that's nearing forty isn't asked to march away.

For there is no place in battle for the head that's turning gray.
His test is one of patience till the bitter work is done.
He must back his country's leaders till the victory is won.

When this bitter time is ended I don't want to have it said:
That I faltered in my courage and I never looked ahead.
I don't want it told I added to the burdens and the woes.
By preaching dismal doctrines that were cheering to the foe:
I want my children's children to respect me and to heed
That my soul was put there fighting though my body stayed behind.

When this cruel test is over and the boys come back from France
I don't want them saying they had for a moment their advance.
That they found their duty harder than 'twas needful it should be.
Because of the complaining of a lot of men like me.
Though I'll win no hero's medals and deserve no wild applause,
I want to be of service, not a hindrance to the cause.

FACTIONS IN CHINA UNITE FOR THE WAR

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Peking, Oct. 2.—Newspapers of north China, even those which were strongly opposing the Pang Kuo-chang government before the declaration of war against Germany and Austria, have undergone a radical change since the country is actually at war. Even the most radical opponents of the government now are urging the republic to present an undivided front to the European enemies.

A letter of congratulations presented to President Feng Kuo-chang by Mr. Reinsch, the American minister, and all the allied ministers congratulating him on China's declaration of war, contained this common paragraph:

"My government is pleased to take this opportunity to give to the Chinese government the assurance of its solidarity and of its friendship and support. It will do all that depends upon it, in order that China may have the benefit in her international relations of the open door policy of Great Britain, France, Russia, Japan and the United States."

This paragraph is generally interpreted by the Chinese press to mean that China's integrity is assured, and that an absolute guarantee will be given to the open door policy of Great Britain, France, Russia, Japan and the United States.

TWENTY PER CENTERS TO LEAVE TOMORROW

THIRTY MEN WITH ALTERNATES MOBILIZE FOR FINAL INSTRUCTIONS FOR ENTRAINMENT

ARE MOBILIZED TODAY

Quota Gathers at Four O'clock at Court House—Off For Cantonment In Morning.

Thirty men, with five alternates, gathered at the Court House a few minutes before four o'clock today to mobilize for the first step in their training as a part of the National Army. Brining with them bags and bundles containing the few toilet articles and pieces of clothing permitted by the government, the men came in from all parts of the northern half of the county, comprising the first registration district. Upon their arrival at the court house they were mustered into the large circuit court chamber on the top floor where officials of the local board gave them final instructions regarding their entrainment, and where a temporary captain and aids were appointed to look after the men until their arrival at Camp Grant tomorrow.

Of the thirty men a number took the opportunity of spending their last few hours at home, and following the brief talks at the court house returned until the mobilization early in the morning for the march to the railroad. Many of the men, however, came down from Evansville, Edgerton and smaller outlying villages, and for the most part these men had no family or other ties at home, and were able to leave at once for the mobilization.

In their honor, a special entertainment has been planned for the selected men at the Y. M. C. A. this evening. Beginning at eight o'clock, the entertainment of the men will be provided for throughout the evening, by a short program of talks, music, and a basketball game. This is especially welcomed by the men, as many of them who are included in this quota.

The men will again mobilize at the court house in the morning and will march to the station where they will board the Rockford train. After this they are under the direct charge of the captain appointed from among the assembly of men, and they enter the military service and are guided by military discipline with its penalties for tardiness and infraction of rules. All of the thirty men will be allotted from the district, have received due notice of their mobilization, and it was not expected this afternoon that there would be any tardiness. At the time he is called by the draft board, he is classed as a deserter and if found will be dealt with by the military authorities. The government has the right to apprehend such a deserter, has created a huge army of men, and a consequent decrease in the desire of any selected man to fail to appear.

Among the lot are several farm hands and married men, but in no case was a man taken away from the work of agricultural production and dependents unless it was deemed advisable by both the local and the district board.

Unlike the men who have been sent from here to Camp Grant in the past, today's allotment may take a few articles of clothing and bedding to be taken to camp. Those who are already there, advise a pillow and case, an extra blanket, changes of underwear and hose, good comfortable shoes, and toilet articles, including both bath and face towels.

FREE TRAINING OFFERED IN TELEGRAPHY AT THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Oct. 2.—The school of telegraphers to train some of the 25,000 telegraphers needed by the United States army, has just been established by the University of Wisconsin, as a part of its special work. The course has been undertaken at the request of the signal corps of the army, and instruction will begin Monday.

October person, whether regularly enrolled in the university or not, may enter the school of telegraphy, and there will be no tuition charge. The training is for the both wireless and wire operators. Applications should be made to Prof. E. M. Terry, Physics building.

The Western Union Telegraph company is supplying an instructor, and apparatus for the course is being furnished by the telegraph company and the signal corps. The course will be held throughout the day and in the evening, to accommodate students who have regular positions, and the work will continue throughout the fall and winter. The course will be held in the evening, because it is expected that women will replace operators called to war.

Two types of students are expected to register for the course. One is preparing for army service; those who are to be drafted soon will thus have a chance of service when the call comes. Frequent reports are being received that the army is looking for the signal corps, their names will be sent in as soon as they have attained a speed of twenty words a minute. Others will be interested in the course as a means of learning the telegraph code, so that they may replace commercial operators who are called into army service.

ORGANIZE CITY FOR LIBERTY LOAN DRIVE

MEETING OF CITY COMMITTEE LAST EVENING EFFECTS COMMITTEE COMPLETE DIVISION OF CITY FOR WORK.

NAME TEAM CAPTAINS

Each District to be Handled by Team With the Co-operation of Special Committees.

Organization of the Janesville City Committee for the second Liberty Loan was perfected last evening at a meeting called by the chairman, Allen P. Lovejoy, and a definite campaign by which every individual will be confronted with the necessity of subscribing to the loan was mapped out. The meetings, both here and in Beloit, were of an enthusiastic and confident; Beloit guaranteed to raise $750,000 of the $1,750,000 which is the county's allotment, while the local city committee has entered a pledge that will meet with even greater success than those employed in the location of the first loan.

The entire city has been divided into districts, with a team to canvass every individual in the city. The main divisions of the business districts were decided upon last evening, with a further division of the residence districts to be perfected on the day of the meeting. H. A. Ford, who was elected as general chairman of the women's work.

Captains for the various teams were appointed by Mr. Lovejoy and each captain will name from five to ten men as his assistants. In the downtown districts every place of business will be canvassed, and every employee will be solicited in this and those canvasses will be solicited by the women's committees in a house to house canvass of the entire city.

The various districts to be canvassed by the men are as follows: District 1—Rock River, Milwaukee street, Franklin street and Pleasant street. Captain, Joseph M. Connors.

District 2—Franklin, Milwaukee and Pleasant streets. Captain, William M. Jackson. District 3—Rock River, Milwaukee, Jackson and Wal streets; J. A. Francis, Captain.

District 4—Jackson, Milwaukee and Wal streets and railroad. D. J. Luby, Captain. District 5—Rock River, Milwaukee, Main and South First streets; F. H. Sheldon, Captain.

District 6—Rock River, North Main, Prospect and Milwaukee street; George E. King, Captain. District 7—Milwaukee, Main, North First and Division streets; William M. Jackson, Captain.

District 8—Milwaukee, Main, Court and Division streets. Ed. Amerphol, Captain. Besides these committees a factory committee, named with Roy Wiseman as chairman, and Charles A. Mudgett as vice chairman. Several other men will be picked to canvass this committee, which will arrange for larger manufacturing establishments in the city, and will conduct the bond sale among the men.

Mr. H. A. Connors was elected last night as vice-chairman of the city committee, and will assist in the work of direction as well as captaining one of the down town teams. In co-operation with these various sub-divisions of the city committee there are several county committees which will do much work in Janesville. H. H. Bliss, chairman of the Janesville city committee, is mapping out an advertising campaign as a forerunner to the actual solicitation of sales. Hundreds of posters are being received by the bank, and the chairman of the larger committees from the government, and these will be distributed throughout the county.

A special committee of the direction has been named under the direction of William H. Dougherty. To this committee all requests for speakers are to be sent by the smaller local committees; they will develop a team of "Four Minute Men" to speak in churches and theatres, and will furnish orators for more lengthy addresses at the larger meetings.

A special informal committee will be named to select a team of men to handle the campaign. Representatives from each lodge who will do their utmost to have certain of the lodge funds devoted to the purchase of Liberty bonds, and to the purchase of the personnel of the unit in the big drive.

Most of this week will be given up to paying the way for the actual canvass, though many of the teams will start within the next day or two in a preliminary solicitation of their districts. Towards the end of the week a "salesmanship conference" will be called at which all the teams will be called to study details of the bonds and points in their distribution.

U. S. FORCES CALLED "SALVATION ARMY"

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Paris, Oct. 2.—The American army in France is coming to be known in the Faubourg Saint Antoine as the "Salvation Army." This is not suggested by the other army of that name, but because so many Frenchmen believe the American army to be the "Salvation Army" of France.

One observer in the Faubourg Saint Antoine better than any other is in France the fine spirit of the command people toward Uncle Sam's troops. They are welcome everywhere. There is always a place for them on the benches of public squares, and the children of the neighborhood who have come out with their sewing to get the air. Every French and the children are proud as peacocks when they have a chance to push a chubby fist into their big brown hands.

In the evening the quarter is turned out of a sort of open school. By the light of pocket lamps the young folks give the Americans aid in mastering French idioms. The instruction is not classic, but mutual understanding comes out of it somehow and both the American soldiers and their teachers get a lot of fun out of the way they mispronounce each other's language.

The Americans have reason to appreciate the hints they get as to how to spend their money without being frowned upon. It is becoming superfluous to say that the Americans are aware that the quarter regards it as a high treason to exploit the soldiers of what they call l'armee de Salut.

INVESTIGATION MAY BE THE RESULT OF YOUTH'S TESTIMONY

Information secured this morning in the municipal court by Judge Maxfield in trying the case of W. E. Ramsey charged with petty larceny, may result in a full investigation of some of the saloons in this city.

It was learned from the testimony of Ramsey that he had been able to get drinks at a number of saloons without hisage being questioned.

He was arrested Saturday afternoon on charges of stealing a watch and chain and some money, the total of which was less than twenty dollars. He was brought before the judge and entered a plea of guilty.

Following his plea he told of the drinking which he was accustomed to do.

The evidence secured will be turned over to city attorney Lange and an investigation made. The youth gave the names and addresses of three saloons which he visited prior to his arrest. He also told of the fact that he had bought in each place and the name of the owner or bartender who sold the liquor to him.

Ramsey's home is in Lansing, Mich. After a hearing at the Milwaukee court he finally came to Janesville and secured work. He then started drinking and his arrest was the result of his stealing from a watchman's room at a roomer at the hotel where he lived.

Leslie Peters appeared in court late over a charge of stealing a five dollar pair of shoes. Peters pleaded guilty to the charge, but Judge Maxfield decided to defer giving him sentence until investigation was made. The judge heard a rumor that Peters had not registered and it was decided to hold him until this charge, any would be proven or disproven.

him. District Attorney Dunville has taken the case in hand and is doing when he can to solve the case.

On looking over the records of men registered in Janesville the name of Leslie Peters has not been found but the name does appear on the records of those registered from Evansville. Whether it is the same person is unknown. The number of the Evansville Leslie Peters has not been called up for examination so that an investigation is necessary.

The sentence will be given the man on October 8 for petty larceny. If he is found not to be guilty of failing to register.

GERMANS CARRY OUT ANOTHER AIR RAID

part evidently came from a base in Belgium. If they flew over the city, the attack ended in a non-stop flight of more than two hundred miles; if from Zebruge, a non-stop flight of two hundred and fifty miles.

In last night's air raid ten persons were killed and thirty-eight injured.

People Remain Calm.
[By Associated Press.]
Londoners, despite the repeated German attempts to drop bombs upon the city, are standing the test well. When two squadrons of raiders closed on London last night, and some of their number flew over the city there was no panic and no untoward incident.

Immediately the coming of the raiders was signalled, people outdoors sought for cover. Within five minutes the streets were deserted and a strange silence fell over the city. Most of the raiders were shot down before the city was reached and there was only a fraction of the number of people on the street as under normal conditions.

With the gathering of dusk many of the poorer classes, particularly the women and children, had gathered at the tube station and other places of refuge. The police and special constables aligned themselves up and when the warning was given they were shepherded into the refuges without confusion or crowding. The theaters, which remained open, had a small audience, and the majority of restaurants were almost deserted.

The air battles over London have become so much a matter of course that whenever there was a lull or a few minutes in the firing the people flocked into the streets and the buses started running again.

The Universal Creamery Company is Now Getting 14,000 Additional Pounds of Milk Per Day

Now Receiving a Total of 23,000 Pounds Daily--Want 30,000 Pounds Daily

We will make 150,000 pounds of cheese per month for shipment all over the United States and Canada. This is a new industry. Before the war our product was made almost entirely in Greece.

We are making better cheese than the imported grade. It is used universally by Greeks in this country and is now being successfully introduced to the Italians, being similar to a cheese they have in their native country. Our product is being in demand more and more by all people.

So we have established in Janesville a permanent business which will not be affected by the war, because after the war is over we can demonstrate that we make a better product here than they do in Europe.

Former importers and manufacturers of Greek cheeses are now interested with us.

Milk producers can, by sending their milk here, help build an industry and at the same time make a connection with a live and growing concern.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl nineteen and I have been going with a boy twenty-three. He doesn't work here now and I have been told that he goes with other girls. But when I ask him about these things he says it isn't true. He is just as nice to me as can be. But I get very lonely and think some time I will give him up and go with other young men, but as long as I go with him I can't be alone when I start going with anyone else I will have to give him up. I am very jealous over me and doesn't want me to go with anyone else. We are engaged, but I can't stand a jealous person.

(1) Do you think these girls will tell me these things to make me mad at him?
(2) Do you think he is true to me?
(3) If he doesn't love me, do you think he would leave me to go to another town to see me?
(4) Do you think we could live happily if we got married seeing he is so jealous and I can't stand it?

(1) Yes, there is a great probability that they do tell you things to make you angry with him, especially themselves. But it is a good idea to ask them what they say. If they find things they will do it all the more, but if they think you don't care, they will stop.
(2) It is probably as true to you as you are to him. If you love him you will not have any desire to go with other boys at all, but will be satisfied to be with him as much as you can.
(3) Probably not. He may love you, but his love may not be strong enough to overcome his jealousy.
(4) Jealousy alone would not be enough to keep you from marrying, but surely there is more to such an affair than jealousy. You should either trust him absolutely or put the thought of marrying him out of your head. You can easily be deceived into thinking that he is not true. I would advise you to wait a while and see if you still think you love him after a year or so.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Last year I went with a college boy, a great deal. We were the best of friends and he often told me that he loved me, and would look deep into my eyes, so that I would turn away blushing. He promised to always be true to me, but in this he has failed. Just before he left for the summer a crowd of us girls and boys were to get together one night and he was to call for me. When the time came another boy came for me and he went alone, not taking any girl.
He was very kind to me that night and has been since then. This summer he wrote me a few times, but his letters were very cold. Now he is back again and continues to be cold. The other night I went out with him to a friend's house and he wanted to go with me, but I told him I didn't know anything I have done or said to make him treat me so. I do not love him, but just would like him to be friends with me. There are a number of boys who go with girls in my set and it is embarrassing when I meet him at parties and have him treat me so.
(1) Please tell me what I can do to gain his friendship. I don't want him to love me, for I love another, but I do want to be friends with him.
(2) Which is the most likely to love a girl, the boy who forever is telling a girl to love her or the boy who does not say anything but just goes with her often and just acts like he cares for her?

SEVENTEEN.
(1) You are too young to go with any one boy; just act natural when you are with and don't make any effort to attract the boy's attention. If he treats you as if he didn't want anything to do with you, take that as he means it and keep away from him as much as possible. If he values your friendship as much as you say he, he will come back. I were you I would let him go for a while at least and get interested in other boys of my age. College boys are apt to be sincere in their declarations of love. They are too young to know better.
(2) Actions speak louder than words. A young man can show by his actions whether or not he cares for a girl. If he continually talks about it, he is probably talking to hear himself talk.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

Arrested is Not Cured

In an address delivered by Dr. Alfred Gordon at the commencement of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Boston, June, 1917, and published in the New York Medical Journal, July 28, 1917, under the title, "Race Betterment," the following passage appears:

"Once the individual is syphilitic it is difficult, if not possible, to establish eventual complete recovery. The primary and even secondary manifestations may be removed but there is no guarantee whatsoever that years after the initial infection the potential for the development of some grave organic disorder in the central nervous system against which science is powerless."

That is one reason why, in recording the medical history, doctors generally write: "Patient denies venereal infection." The phrase implies that the denial may be prompted by ignorance or false pride. It also implies another very important fact: a physician may think of syphilis being arrested, just as tuberculosis may be arrested, by thorough treatment; but in syphilis, the disease is not cured by stopping to think it has been cured by some other physician. If it had been cured there would be no occasion to inquire about it in eliciting the patient's medical history.

Writing about the inefficiency of the intra-spinal injection of salvarsan in the treatment of nervous syphilis, caused by late syphilis, Dr. B. Sachs (Jour. American Medical Association, Sept. 1, 1917) observes that besides the greater danger of such a method of administration the results seem no better and often inferior to the results of injecting the remedy into the vein. He also insists that the successful treatment of syphilis of the nervous system demands intensive salvarsan administration, by which he means injections of full doses given into a vein every three to five days until from twenty to fifty injections have been given in all. "This is a far cry from the original dream of one curative dose of 606!"

More and more the study of syphilis and its treatment forces us to admit that an arrest of the disease is the best result we can hope for, irrespective of any Wassermann or other blood tests. The blood test is by no means infallible. In fact, indeed, it is only corroborative evidence, to be considered together with the clinical examination of the patient.

Once an individual acquires tuberculosis, he is always going to harbor the disease in his system. It is not a matter of time, but of degree. It is only corroborative evidence, to be considered together with the clinical examination of the patient.

Can a birthmark mark its appearance for the first time three weeks after the birth of the baby?
ANSWER.—Yes, sometimes the lesion is not visible at first.

TAKE A CHANCE

"Don't you think you're taking more of a chance than the thing is worth?" some one asked the Authorman in regard to a little venture he was planning.
"You like chances?" said the Authorman, "and that's one of my biggest reasons for doing it."
"Hardening of the Arteries in His..."

"I used to," said the Authorman, "but when this thing came up I found myself dreading it because it was taking a chance, and I looked myself over and found I'd been getting into the habit of dreading to take chances, and I can tell you it made me sick. Here, an old fellow, forty and beginning to play it safe, just said, 'My son, you've got to timber up. You're getting hardening of the arteries in your courage. What's the use of living if you stop to playing safe all the time?' Stop it, playing safe all the time!"

"I don't know as playing safe is such a bad thing," said the Authorman's Critic. "You get more that way."
"Wouldn't Try Any Experiments?" "More What?" said the Authorman.

SAVING FOOD MEANS SAVING THE NATION

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Oct. 2.—Magnus Swenson, state food administrator, today asked the press of the state to correct some impressions which have been getting regarding the work of the food administration.

"I have been told," he said, "that certain persons, in their persistent effort to oppose the war policies of the nation, have begun a quiet misrepresentation of the work of the food administration in this and other states. Such a person is a traitor and should be summarily dealt with. That class, however, does not work in the open."

"The food administration is asking the people to save food, primarily for the sake of the nation at war, and not for the sake of the individual. We are all interested, and also to advance their own interests."

"If the people of Wisconsin are able, through eliminating waste and reducing their consumption of certain foods, to increase the amount of food stuffs which we annually sell to other states, they will be adding to the food supply of the nation. The food administration does not ask our people to give away one pound of food or to accept one penny less for their products."

"The food administration has been made the subject of a statement which the nation may condemn the surplus food when the supply is known. The food administration has been advised not to sign pledges to conserve food, the statement being made that the food administrators would come and take away what they had saved."

"The things one could say about the food administration are many things he could say but he realizes the futility of saying them."

But after the objector had gone he opened the little wallet in which he keeps some of his favorite scraps of wisdom and read aloud from a tattered bit of paper:

"Not the laurel but the race
Not the quarry but the chase
Not the hazard but the play
Make me, Lord, enjoy always."

boiled, one green pepper, cut up coarsely, hot butter, salt, pepper and paprika to taste, two cups white sauce. Mix salmon, rice and green pepper with some of the white sauce, then place the creamed mixture in a casserole, top with butter and dot each layer with butter and pour more white sauce over. For the top a little more butter than for the other layers, and pour over the top. Bake in a hot oven for fifteen minutes. A very nice company dish.

Acid Potato Bread.—Eight potatoes grated raw and strained, one-half pint milk, one cake yeast, heating teaspoon salt, one cup butter, one cup sugar. Place potatoes and let stand for a while. Use the starch from the potatoes with the milk and yeast warm, in which a little sugar can be added. Add ground butter, four to six tablespoons. Let rise, put into pan, let rise again and bake. Garlic may be omitted.

Bread Omelet (will serve several persons).—Over one cup of bread crumbs, pour one cup boiling milk. Let stand twenty-five minutes. Add half a teaspoon salt. Separate four eggs, beat the whites and yolks well, this being one of the important items. Add beaten yolks to the crumbs and milk, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites and pour into frying pan in which is a teaspoon of melted butter. Cook three minutes, then set over a low heat and let remain ten or twelve minutes. It should be two inches thick when done. This omelet is very appetizing, nutritious and economical.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

(Miss Hoyt will answer in this paper all questions on matters of etiquette addressed to her in care of this paper. If a personal answer is desired enclose a two-cent stamp.)

For coffee after dinner a very small spoon is served, as a large one would be out of place in the small cups which are used.

PERCY V.: Your questions are one which I often have to answer. As it is considered bad form for a man to wear a hat anywhere above the office floor in an apartment building or hotel, he should always remove it when entering the elevator. In such a building, on the other hand, where an elevator is regarded not as a small room, but rather as a hall or stair, one may wear his hat if he would replace it on leaving the lift. However, this is largely a matter of choice, and a gentleman often prefers to take his hat off in any public place where ladies, especially if the passengers are few.

WOMAN A MAYOR AND PROSPEROUS FARMER

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Moorehead, Fla., Oct. 2.—Mrs. George Horwitz, the mayor of Moorehead, Fla., the only mayor of her sex in the United States, when she is not working as a land surveyor, raises nearly every known species of vegetables, and as a side line hogs.

She does not look like a woman who has been playing in the fields all day and managing a small town at the same time. She is blond, pretty and young. "I am more than thirty," she said. "Being mayor, one would think she would be willing to talk about the woman in politics."

"That is the last thing I want to talk about," was her surprising answer. "I have been doing the things I have been doing for a long time. I think much about political enfranchisement."

Mrs. Horwitz has been made a member of the governor of Florida's staff, and she is also on the state committee on national defense, and is preparing to organize a home defense organization.

In the United States only one farm in seven of more than twenty acres now supports sheep, and consequently we import nearly a third of a billion pounds of wool yearly.

BAKING POWDER
CALUMET BAKING POWDER CO.

The value of baking powder is based on its leavening strength. You can't judge it by the size of the can—or by the amount you get for your money. You must estimate it by the amount of baking powder used in each baking and the results you get.

BIGGER SAVINGS

is the greatest value ever offered in Baking Powder—it has greater raising "force"—it goes further than most of the other brands. You use only a rounded or heaping teaspoonful where others call for two teaspoonfuls or more.

But Baking Powder is not all you'll save when using Calumet. You save baking materials. Calumet never fails. The last level teaspoonful is as powerful as the first. Calumet is perfectly manufactured—keeps perfectly—and is moderate in price.

One trial will satisfy you of these facts—and demonstrate beyond doubt that "Calumet spells economy."

THE GREAT DIVIDE

The woman in the prime of life need not dread to meet the loss of her youth when growing elderly. While some charms diminish, others should replace them: charms of experience, cultivation, wisdom in the great physical changes met between the fourth and fifth year are indeed serious and are not always well borne. In the strain of modern life, few women are in condition to meet these changes without some apprehension of damaged health. But with the excellent help of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that old trustworthy woman's medicine, a woman may confidently expect to enjoy later life as well and robust as ever. Advertisement.

Try Making Your Own Cough Remedy

You can save about 50¢ and have a better remedy than the ready-made kind. Easily done.

If you combined the genuine properties of every known "cough" remedy, you would hardly have in them all the curative power that lies in this simple "cough" remedy. The total cost takes only a few minutes to prepare. Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex and fill a bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 6¢ and gives you a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Tastes pleasant and never spoils. This Pinex and sugar syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and the sore, irritated membranes that line the throat, chest and bronchial tubes, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs. To avoid disappointment, be sure to ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., St. Marys, Pa.

Beyond the Frontier

A Romance of Early Days in the Middle West

Author of "Keith of the Border," "My Lady of Doubt," "The Maid of the Forest," etc.

Copyright, A. C. McClure & Co. "Tall" He burst into a laugh, rising from the table. Before I could draw back he had gripped me by the arm. "Enough of that, young lady."

He is my choice, and that settles it. Love, who ever heard of love nowadays? Ah, I see, you dream already of the young gallant d'Artigny. Well, little good that will do you. Why what is he? A mere ragged adventurer, without a sou to his name, a prowling wolf of the forest, the follower of a discredited fur trader. But enough of that; I have told you my will, and you obey. Tomorrow we go to Quebec to the governor's ball, and when Mon-

"Sacre! Do you think yourself a Queen to Choose?"

Sieur Cassion returns from his mission you will marry him—you understand?"

The tears were in my eyes, blotting out his threatening face, yet there was naught to do but answer.

"Yes, monsieur."

"And this d'Artigny, if the fellow ever dares come near you again I'll crush his white throat between my fingers."

"Yes, monsieur."

"To your room then, and think over all I have said. You have never found me full of idle threats I warrant."

"No, monsieur."

I drew my arm from his grasp, feeling it tingle with pain where his fingers had crushed the flesh, and crept up the narrow stairs, glad enough to get away and be alone. I had never loved Chevet, but he had taught me to fear him, for more than once had I experienced his brutality and physical power. To him I was but a chattel, an incubation. He had assumed charge of me because the law so ordained, but I had found nothing in his nature on which I could rely for sympathy. I was his sister's child, yet no more to him than some Indian walf. More, he was honest about it. To his mind he did well by me in thus finding me a husband. I sank on my knees, and hid my face, shuddering at the thought of the sacrifice demanded. Cassion never before had the man appeared so despicable. Yet what could I do? It was useless to appeal to Chevet, and the governor, La Barre, would give small heed to a girl objecting to one of his henchmen, d'Artigny! The name was on my lips before I realized I had spoken it, and brought a throb of hope. I arose to my feet, and stared out of the window into the dark night. My pulses throbbed. If he cared, if I only knew he cared, I would fly with him anywhere, into the wilderness depths, to escape Cassion.

But how could I reach him with my tale? There was but one opportunity—the governor's ball. He would be there; he had said so, laughingly glancing toward me as he spoke the words, the flash of his eyes a challenge. But it would be difficult. Chevet, Cassion, not for a moment would they take eyes from me, and if I failed to treat him coldly an open quarrel must result. Chevet would be glad of an excuse, and Cassion's jealousy would spur him on. Yet I must try, and, in truth, I trusted not so much in Monsieur d'Artigny's interest in me, as in his reckless love of adventure. 'Twould please him to play an audacious trick on La Salle's enemies, and make Cassion the butt of laughter.

CHAPTER III.

I Appeal for Aid.

It had been two years since I was at Quebec, and it was with new eyes of appreciation that I watched the great bustling city as our boat glided silently past the shore and headed toward the landing. Cassion met us, attired so gayly in rich vestments that I scarcely recognized the man, whom I had always seen before in dull forest garb, yet I permitted him to take my hand and assist me gallantly to the shore. It was evidently a gala day, for flags and streamers were flying from every window of the lower town, and the narrow, crooked streets were filled with wanderers having no apparent business but enjoyment. Never had I viewed so merrily a throng, and I could but gaze about with wide opened eyes on the strange passing figures.

It was all of such interest I was glad enough to be finally rid of him, and he greeted so kindly by Sister Celeste.

"Three years have changed you greatly, my child," she said gently, touching my cheeks with her soft hands; "but bright as your eyes are, it is not all pleasure I see in them. You must tell me of your life. The older man, I take it, was your uncle, Monsieur Chevet."

"Yes," I answered, but hesitated to add more.

"He is much as I had pictured him, a bear of the woods."

"He is rough," I protested, "for his life has been hard, yet has given me no reason to complain. 'Tis because the life is lonely that I grow old."

"No doubt, and the younger gallant? He is not of the forest school?"

"'Twas Monsieur Cassion, commissaire for the governor."

"Ah! 'tis through him you have irritation to the great hall."

I bowed my head, wondering at the kind questioning in the sister's eyes. Could she have heard the truth? Perhaps she might tell me something of the man.

"He has been selected by Monsieur Chevet as my husband," I explained doubtfully. "Know you aught of the man, sister?"

Her hand closed gently on mine. "No, only that he has been chosen by La Barre to carry special message to the Chevalier de Baugis in the Illinois country. He bath an evil, sneering face, and an insolent manner, even as described to me by the Sieur d'Artigny."

I caught my breath quickly, and my hand grew tightened.

"The Sieur d'Artigny?" I echoed, startled into revealing the truth. "He has been here? Has talked with you?"

"Surely, my dear girl. He was here with La Salle before his chief sailed for France, and yesterday he came again, and questioned me."

"Questioned you?"

"Yes; he sought knowledge of you, and of why you were in the household of Chevet. I liked the young man, and told him all I know, of your father's death and the decree of the court, and of how Chevet compelled you to leave the convent. I felt him to be honest and true, and that his purpose was worthy."

"Sister, you must hear me," I said. "I have no mother, no friend even to whom to appeal; I am just a girl all alone. I despise this man Cassion; I do not know why, but he seems to be like a snake, and I cannot bear his presence. I would rather die than marry him. I do not think Chevet trusts him, either, but he has some hold and compels him to sell me as though I was a slave in the market. I am to be made to marry him. I pray you let me see this Sieur d'Artigny that I may tell him all, and beseech his aid."

"But why d'Artigny, my girl? What is the boy to you?"

"Nothing—absolutely nothing," I confessed frankly. "We have scarcely spoken together, but he is a gallant of true heart; he will never refuse aid to a maid like me. It will be joy for him to outwit this enemy of La Salle. All I ask is that I be permitted to tell him my story."

Celeste sat silent, her white hands clasped, her eyes on the stained glass window. It was so still I could hear my own quick breathing. At last she spoke, her voice still soft and kindly.

"I have no power, child, but I will speak with the mother superior, and repeat to her all I have learned. It shall be as she wills. Wait here, and you may trust me to plead for you."

She seemed to fade from the room,

Her Hand Closed Gently on Mine.

the crucifix above the door, and the one partially open window, set deep in the stone wall.

Soon I was dimly aware that someone had entered the apartment. It was the mother superior, looking smaller than ever in the gloom, and behind her, framed in the narrow doorway, his eyes smiling as though in enjoyment of my confusion, stood d'Artigny. I climbed down from the bench, feeling my cheeks burn hotly, and made obeisance. The mother's soft hand rested on my hair, and there was silence, so deep I heard the pounding of my heart.

"Child," said the mother, her voice low but clear. "Rise that I may see your face. Ah! it has not so greatly changed in the years, save that the eyes hold knowledge of sorrow. Sister Celeste hath told me your story, and if it be sin for me to grant your request then must I abide the penance, for it is in my heart to do so. Until I send the sister you may speak alone with Monsieur d'Artigny."

She drew slightly aside, and the young man bowed low, but in hand, then stood erect, facing me, the light from the window on his face.

"At your command, mademoiselle," he said quietly. "The mother tells me you have need of my services. This Hugo Chevet—he is a brute. I know—is his abuse beyond endurance?"

"No, no," I hastened to explain. "In his way he is not unkind. The truth is he has lived so long in the woods alone, he scarcely speaks. He—he would marry me to Monsieur Cassion."

Never will I forget the look of sheer delight on his face as these words burst from me. His hand struck the bench, and he tossed back the long hair from his forehead, his eyes merry with enjoyment.

"Ah, good! By all the saints, 'tis even as I hoped. Then have no fear of my sympathy, mademoiselle. Nothing could please me like a clash with that perfumed gallant. He doth persecute you with his wooing?"

"He has not spoken, save to Chevet; yet it is seemingly all arranged without my being approached."

"No doubt they are hand in glove in the fur trade, and the commissaire has La Barre's ear just now. He rode by yonder in the carriage a moment since, and you might think from his bows he was the governor. And this marriage? when does it take place?"

"On monsieur's safe return from the great West."

"The smile came back to his face. 'Not so bad that, for 'tis a long journey, and might be delayed. I travel with you, you know, and we depart at daybreak. What else did this Chevet have to say?"

"Only a threat that if ever you came near me again his fingers would feel your throat, monsieur. He spoke of hate between himself and your father."

The eyes upon mine lost their tolerant smile, and grew darker, and I marked the fingers of his hand clinch. "That was like enough, for my father was little averse to a quarrel, although he seldom made boast of it afterwards. And so this Hugo Chevet threatened me! I am not of the blood, mademoiselle, to take such things lightly. Yet wait—why came you to me with such a tale? Have you no friends?"
